

Table of Contents

---

Table of Contents	v
List of Tables	xi
List of Figures	xv
Introduction	1
Part I Social Background and Research Agenda
1. Marriage and Partnership in a Changing Social Landscape	7
1.1. Demographical Issues	8
1.1.1. The 'New' Outlook of Dutch Partnership	8
1.1.2. Transitions in Partnership Interpreted	14
1.1.3. Much Ado About What?	16
1.2. Theoretical Issues	20
1.2.1. The Homo Optionis: Choice, Risk and Partnership	21
1.2.2. Emotionality, Identity, Stability and Vulnerability	24
1.3. Gender Issues	26
1.3.1. Who Gets the Best Deal?	26
1.3.2. The Gender Division of Emotion	28
1.3.3. The Gendered Impact of Children	31
1.4. Conclusion	33
2. Towards a Research Design for Marital Satisfaction	35
2.1. Impetus of the Study	35
2.1.1. The Vulnerability-Stress-Adaptation Model of Marriage	37
2.1.2. From a Conceptual to a Methodological Toolkit	41
2.2. Research Questions	42
2.3. Structure of this Study	47

3. Method	51
3.1. Dutch Panel Data	51
3.2. Procedure	55
3.3. Selection and Characteristics of the Married Sub-sample	56
3.4. Validation of the Sample and Missings Cases	58
3.4.1. External Validation	59
3.4.2. Internal Validation	62
3.4.3. Item Non-Response	64

Part II The Study

4. The Dutch Marital Satisfaction and Communication Questionnaire: A Validation Study	69
4.1. Introduction	69
4.2. Research Aim	72
4.3. Study 1	73
4.3.1. Procedure and Participants	74
4.3.2. Measures	74
4.3.3. Results	75
4.4. Study 2	79
4.4.1. Procedure and Participants	79
4.4.2. Measures	81
4.4.3. Results	81
4.5. Study 3	83
4.5.1. Procedure and Participants	83
4.5.2. Measures	83
4.5.3. Results	84
4.6. Discussion	85
5. The relationship Between Communication and Marital Satisfaction. A Cross-Lagged Panel Analysis	89
5.1. Introduction	89

5.2. Method	94
5.2.1. Procedure and Sample	94
5.2.2. Measures	95
5.3. Results	97
5.4. Discussion	105
6. Effects of Spousal Economic and Cultural Characteristics on Marital Satisfaction	109
6.1. Introduction	109
6.2. Theoretical and Empirical Background	110
6.3. Present Study and Hypotheses	115
6.4. Study Design	116
6.5. Method	117
6.5.1. Procedure and Sample	117
6.5.2. Measures	118
6.6. Results	120
6.7. Conclusion and Discussion	131
7. Social Position, Gender Role Identity and Marital Satisfaction	137
7.1. Introduction	137
7.2. Empirical Background	138
7.3. Present Study and Hypotheses	143
7.4. Method	145
7.4.1. Procedure and Sample	145
7.4.2. Measures	146
7.5. Results	148
7.6. Discussion	160
8. Associations Between Gender Characteristics and Marital Outcomes. A Test of Identity Theory in Established Marriages	169
8.1. Introduction	169
8.2. Present Study	175

Table of Contents

---

8.3. Method	176
8.3.1. Participants	176
8.3.2. Measures	178
8.4. Results	180
8.5. Discussion	191
9. Marital Relationships and Parenting Experiences in Established Marriages. Short-Term and Long-Term Interrelationships	199
9.1. Introduction	199
9.2. Short-Term Relationships Between Parenting Experiences and Marital Relationships	201
9.3. Long-Term Relationships Between Parenting Experiences and Marital Satisfaction	209
9.4. Present Study	210
9.5. Method	213
9.5.1. Sample	213
9.5.2. Measures	215
9.6. Results	217
9.7. Discussion and Conclusion	231
Part III Conclusion and Implications
10. Central Findings and Reflections	245
10.1. Introduction	245
10.2. Central Findings Recapitulated and Reconsidered	247
10.2.1. Communication	247
10.2.2. Parenting	249
10.2.3. Spouses' Labor Market Resources and Their Cultural Orientations	252
10.2.4. Gender	255

10.3. Concluding Reflections: Strengths, Unresolved Issues and Future Directions	259
10.3.1. Methodological Reflections	260
10.3.2. Theoretical Reflections	262
10.3.3. Towards a New Research Agenda for Studying Marital Satisfaction	264
10.3.4. Policy Thoughts	268
10.4. Marriage in Motion: Final Reflection	272
Samenvatting – Dutch summary	275
References	293